“ Happy Birthday little brother. May 3. You will always be remembered. I am so lucky to have so many childhood memories of you playing football and baseball, memories of your childhood innocence, you had a very sweet heart, I am lucky to have seen that side of you so many times. You were definitely a handful. If I needed you, you were there for me, even though you thought I was a spoiled brat 🤔😏 Thank you for that. I love you Jason. Your sister, Theresa & family

*Happy Birthday little brother..
May 3,2022. Remembering all your birthdays today as a little boy in Columbus GA. You were the cutest little brother so sweet back then but what a little rascal. I love you, Theresa & Family. I pray Jesus has his arms around you and you are at peace....❤️🙏😞☐*

August 3, 2023. Today I remember all the sweet good memories of you. I choose to laugh remembering you getting me to pierce your left ear for a earring knowing momma would have a fit, me jumping around freaking out sticking the earring through, then you put a piece of broom thread in it thinking she would not notice. Please, of course that was the first thing she noticed when she got home and I am the one who got in trouble because I was the oldest. 🤔 You were a little rascal for sure. Or let's see when I went inside Duluth High School to register for my junior classes I leave you in the car I guess you were 13 or 14, was not gone long, I get in car put my hands on my steering wheel and my hands get grossly sticky because you put a whole tube of Neosporin all over my steering wheel, and you laughed and laughed like that was the funniest thing ever. 😂😂❤️😭😭 While I am remembering times you made me laugh, tears run down my face, I miss my little brother and think how your life should have been so different, I wish I could have saved you. I pray you are hugging Jesus. I will always love you, and try to always focus on sweet memories of you. Love your sister, Theresa & family

May God hold sweet AJ tightly in his arms. I am praying for the ones closest to him, his amazing mom Amy, she loved him so much, I saw her never give up when they were young. Adam and Ashley and his other siblings you have lost so much, I pray God is surrounding you all with strength. AJ was a special, kind soul, I will always remember him as the sweet little AJ that gave the biggest hugs. When people move away and when people pass away connections in life weaken, cherish all the sweet memories you have and hold on tight to the ones who truly love you and are loyal to you. I saw where AJ posted about loyalty not Long ago. Amy Thank you for never giving up on him. You are a great mom. I am so sorry this happened, all my love your Aunt Theresa & family ❤️

May 3, 2025- Happy Birthday little brother. I was thinking about you this morning if course because it is your birthday 🎉 but as I was doing my facial and applying my moisturizer I thought, Jason would get such a kick 😂 out of me going through peri menopause... It is no 🤪 joke, I think I started it much later than most women, Thank Goodness, I probably have about another 8 months or so to go, oh me oh my, If you were here you would laugh every time you heard all about it. I think that is the key, laugh about it 😂🤪❤️ Sending you hugs, your sister Theresa. I love you birthday boy, love you 🥰
