“ Happy Mother’s Day, My Love ❤️❤️

Ashley, my beautiful wife, my angel...

Today is Mother’s Day, and though the world may not see you standing beside me, I feel your presence in everything—especially in Isaiah. You gave me the greatest gifts a man could ever ask for: your love, your grace, and our two incredible boys. Though our precious Ebenezer rests along with you in heaven, I carry him in my soul, and I see you in every breath Isaiah takes.

There isn’t a day that passes without my heart aching for you—your smile, your laughter, your fierce love for our family. You were, and forever will be, the heart of our home. Even now, you still mother us from above... I feel it when Isaiah laughs, when I find strength I didn’t know I had, and when I’m reminded of what it means to love unconditionally.

I will always love you. That love hasn’t faded—it’s only deepened. I long for the day we are reunited, where pain no longer exists and we can be whole again. But until then, I will be here for Isaiah. I’ll love him enough for both of us, raise him with the same courage and compassion you showed every day, and remind him always of who his mother was—a queen, a true helper, a warrior, and a light.

We miss you deeply, fluffy. You will always be our forever.

Happy Mother’s Day in heaven. ❤️❤️❤️

“ GLOWING TRIBUTE TO MRS ASHLEY POOLE-OSUNLALU (MADAM “O”) AND EBENEZER OSUNLALU JR. (HERREDERO)

On December 7, 2023, the throes of death snatched both of you away from the Family through a vehicle accident on Scenic Highway, Lawrenceville, GA.

This news of your passing was a rude shock to everyone in the Family; and since then, we have had to live with these traumatic pains, hoping that time would heal. But time has failed to heal. When this heart-wrenching news was conveyed to us over the telephone, we wished they were a misdirected call or a prank. Unfortunately, it was about both of you and the agonizing news was for us to bear. Oh, my God! Two members of our family were suddenly gone! Our daughter-in-law - Ashley Marie Osunlalu (nee Poole) - and our grandson - Ebenezer Olawale Osunlalu Jr. - were no more.

What a sad day we will continue to remember! We wept uncontrollably, intermittently asking God why?. The cruelty of death stared the family in the face and took away our Jewels, and abruptly ended the bright and assured future of Madam “O” and the son, Herredero – the First in the next generation of The Osunlalus – as we fondly described him. We wept as if our tears might somewhat bring you both to life. I banged my head, soliloquizing at the misfortune my headship had brought into the Family. This is a cry we shall live to cry for the rest of our lives.

Madam ‘O’, you gave 15 years of your love and life to this Family. You were an added value to our Family. You integrated seamlessly into the culture and traditions that were completely alien to you. You never for a day betrayed the confidence your late Mom reposed in you as a good girl when she gracefully gave her consent, on behalf of your Family, to your marriage to our son, Ebenezer.

Madam ‘O’ (as in Osunlalu), you were an exception to any stereotype. You were a dutiful wife and loving Mom, as well as responsible. You made your family proud amongst us, and we reciprocated by extending our open arms of genuine love to you. You were respectful to the core – an uncommon trait in this part of the world.

Herredero, you were a grandson we would urge to grow taller. We wanted you to be the tallest in the family. You assured us you would. Each time you came to visit, we would measure you up to Grandpa to see how you fared in height. We were proud of your academic success stories.

It is disheartening to realize that your dreams were dashed suddenly. Your life was cut short in the accident that did not spare your Mom either.

Madam "O" and Herredero, we thank God for you. We were blessed to have you in our Family. You left an indelible mark in our hearts.

Loving you was never hard but saying goodbye was.

While we continue to mourn you, we pray that the Almighty God rest your souls and grant us the fortitude to bear these very painful losses. And may your memories be a blessing to this Family.

Forever loved.

Mr. & Mrs. A. O. Osunlalu

Knowing I married you Feb 14, 2007, and for the first time, not having you around, hurt my soul. Too many thoughts have gone through my head. I try hard to fight them constantly that I remain awake almost all night. I entertained some ill thoughts but ensured I remained strong and not cowardice towards taking my own life. Isaiah continues to be a strong guy for me. He is that part of you I do not play with as he is your sole heir in this world. I miss you and our son every freaking second. And it hurts me so hurt. In all her essence and glory. Her smile and radiance. A willingness to go millions of miles for others regardless of the discomfort it causes to her.

My love, I ache everyday on your absence. My heart weeps continuously. I took you, my Angel, for granted. And the Lord decided it was best to bring you home.

I can never ever feel the same. I owe you my life. I owe you everything I have become. We had plans. 40 was going to be our enjoyment and partying ages. I owe you a brand new house with 5-rooms and a basement. I owe you a "big body" range. I owe you so much and I am forever indebted.

Please, take care of Ebenezer for me. Please. I pushed him so hard on his education. I wanted the best for him and didn't want him to slack. He was supposed to go to GA Teach or MIT. We planned MIT and Yale.

“ Ashley you will truly be missed. I am so thankful I was able to talk with you and hear your sweet voice. You would always say “yes mam” to me and I would say Ashley we are the same age. lol May you rest in peace with your sweet baby boy. Praying peace and comfort for the family during this very difficult time.

“ Sweet Ashley, we are all heartbroken due to such an immeasurable loss. You were a beautiful, smart and caring woman who also happened to be a wonderful mom. The way your face would light up when you talked about your boys, spoke volumes of the love you have for them. It was Such a blessing to know you Ash, rest well with your baby ❤️.

“ My dear Ashley, you are the most wonderful, selfless, thoughtful, and just an amazing friend. Despite people's imperfections, you always saw the best in them. Without you, what am I supposed to do now?

There was once a person who told me, "You can never truly lose a good friend.". Their spirit lives on in the hearts and minds of those who were close to them. The bonds of friendship extend beyond the mortal realm.

“ Ashley I don't even know where to begin. We all grew up closer than cousin's. ME, you,AA and Kristen have some of the greatest childhood memories together. I loved our last moments shared where all I can recall was you smiling and laughing. I miss you so much and I wish I could share more moments with you and Eb. No way in a million years did I think me seeing you hugging you was the last goodbye. I would of let you bear me at jenga had I known that. I love you and Eb. Rest easy Pooda!

“ I can't believe my best friend of 14 years is gone. You touch everyone heart you met. My family became your family. Ladies trips will not be the same without you. I can't stop these tears from falling. We just talked on Thursday hours before your death. Why did God have take the good one away. You was my shoulder to cry on. My financial counselor. My friends became your friends. I swear this is not fair. We had big plans for the future. I will always remembered our talks and you telling " Tari do you every go anywhere on time?" I will make sure I come early to see you get laid to rest. I hoped you are resting in peace. Forever my best friend. 💔
