

Brian V Gould

September 4, 1952 - January 21, 2021

Brian Vincent Gould passed away on 21 January, 2021. He was born on 04 September, 1952 to the late Alfred and Lillian (Shumway) Gould and has five sisters: Sylvia (Gould) Silva (deceased), Beth (Gould) Macomber (deceased), Bonnie (Gould) Coro, Sharon "Sharmee" (Gould) Seid, Sandra (Gould) Zimler; and one brother, Benson Gould. He grew up and attended school in Whitinsville, Massachusetts. Brian married his High School sweetheart, Joanne (Bates), in 1972 and started a family, moving from Whitinsville to Sutton where he would have the family home built in 1980. Brian worked numerous odd jobs to support his family, never settling for a typical career. Brian moved to North Georgia in the early 2000s, living in that area until his death. Brian was physically a big man and wished to be cremated as he "would take up less room that way."

Brian is a man known for many things, but he knew who he was and was confident in that knowledge. He is known for being a quiet bookworm, but he had a voice that could shake the trees when he needed to get your attention. He may have seemed to be a private person, but only because he never wanted anyone to worry over him, therefore never relayed any more information than he felt necessary. While Brian never had any fancy college degrees, he could debate with the most intellectual people over the toughest subjects. Brian tried to make you think: he was a philosopher of sorts and a walking encyclopedia; he could challenge your morals and beliefs so that your morals and beliefs would be strengthened. Brian was a Son, Husband, Father, Grandfather, Great-Grandfather, Brother, and Uncle who was liked or loved by everyone that he would let get close to him. Brian is survived by his wife, Joanne (Bates) Gould, and two sons, Christopher and Jason Gould, his surviving brother and sisters, numerous nieces and nephews, a grandson and granddaughter, and two great-granddaughters.
